Vocational Education and Training (VET)

What is Vocational Education and Training at the college?

Vocational Education and Training is designed to prepare students of all ages for employment or further training. The qualifications, Certificates and Units of Competency (UoC) that students can achieve through VET programs are devised to meet the needs of the industry. VET provides training resulting in nationally recognised industry qualifications.

The VET system and the education system are distinct but complementary. The VET sector is industry driven, allowing industry to indicate the skills and knowledge needed, and the qualifications are linked to job roles. VET is lined up to identify industry skill requirements and skill shortage areas.
